

Researching Sustainability Methodological Perspectives

Content

This symposium offers a platform to discuss methodologies for exploring a sustainable world. We invite two outstanding researchers to share their insights and approaches to deepen our understanding. This event aims to foster fresh perspectives through interactions between students and researchers.

Date & Time

December.6 FRI 17:00-18:30 (JST)

Presenters

Dr. Peter Sutoris/Lecturer (Assistant Professor) in University of Leeds
Areas of expertise: social movements, future imaginaries, environmental, justice, environmental anthropology, environmental and sustainability education, ethnography

Prof. Matthew Waldman/Professor in Keio university graduate school of media design
Areas of expertise: branding, interactive, digital, product design, circular design and bio-design

Student presenters
Ateffa Jalali, Hitomi Sato, Moe Asano,
Takuma Hattori/Graduate School of Hiroshima University

Language

English

CICE seminar room, IDEC Building
6th Floor, Hiroshima University
(Face to face only)

Location

Registration

Contact: Takuma Hattori/Hiroshima University

d243373*hiroshima-u.ac.jp(convert "*" to "@")