

【common assignment of Peace Science Courses】

【precaution】

Be sure to write a report after visiting monuments (such as Hiroshima Peace Memorial Museum).

Visiting monuments on peace

1. Introduction

Hiroshima University consider what the first president Morito advocated, “a single unified university, free and pursuing peace” as the spirit of the foundation of the university. We raise “the spirit of desiring peace” as the primary principle, because the first president placed Hiroshima University as a cultural and spiritual center of Peace City Hiroshima after the atomic bombing.

Needless to say, studying peace needs to face the tragedy of wars and nurture the viewpoints of looking for disarmament including abolition of nuclear weapons. Other than that, in order to nurture rich humanity through considering peace continuously from various points of view such as “poverty”, “hunger”, “increased population”, “environment”, “education” and “culture”, Hiroshima University assigns all students peace science subjects and to visit peace monuments (Hiroshima Peace Memorial Museum, etc.) to write reports on that to consider peace through their own experiences.

We hope everyone admitted to Hiroshima University to think about what peace is through learning peace science subjects.

2. Reports on peace monuments visiting

(1) Making the report

You are supposed to write the report after visiting monuments (Hiroshima Peace Memorial Museum, etc.)

After visiting peace monuments, compose an essay in around 500 words what you thought about peace.

The visiting report is an essential assignment. When you fail to submit the report, the credit will not be given.

- Download the report form from “Momiji top(note 1) →learning support →liberal arts education → information of subjects →Peace Science Courses (hereinafter referred as (*))” (Word). After downloading, make your report in your PC.
- The page setup of the form (margin, etc.) and the font size (10.5point) are not being changes.
- You can submit only one PDF file. When you have images, etc., paste them in your report.

To avoid your writing being suspected of dishonest acts, you are necessarily required to read the “Rules and Guidelines for Writing a Report” to write your report.

(2) The deadline of the report

Following is the schedule of the deadline.

The 2nd term course-->June 19th (prearranged) ~June 30th
